

Celebrating the Lone Jack Battle.

There will be a large gathering at Lone Jack next Thursday to celebrate the anniversary of the battle which took place there between the Federals and Confederates August 16, 1861. Republicans and Democrats, ex-Confederates and ex-Union soldiers will alike take part in the celebration. It has been customary for a number of years to celebrate the day. Speeches will be made at the coming celebration by a number of Kansas Cityans. The Kansas City Light battery will take part. Lone Jack is in the extreme southeastern part of Jackson county. County Marshal Hugh J. McGowan will be grand marshal.
